

Title 1 Newsletter

November 2017

Thank you!

Thank you to all of the families that attended our Parent Orientation session on November 2nd. We hope that you found the session informative. If you have any additional questions please do not hesitate to reach out to any of our Title 1 staff.

Discover

Discover new people. Biographies, autobiographies, memoirs, and diaries are often popular with youngsters. Encourage your child to find books about athletes, inventors, or presidents. Just one good story can get your child hooked on nonfiction.

Don't forget to stop by Jesse Smith Library if you don't already have a library card!

Division

A newborn elephant weighs about 240 pounds. Ask your child how many of them it would take to equal an elephant's weight. Let them weigh themselves, and see how many more times the elephant weighs than your child. Also, have them compare an elephant's weight to other objects. For example, how many 5-lb. bags of sugar equal a baby elephant?

Resource: 2017 Resources for Educators, Recipes for Success & 2013 Resources for Educators, Reading Connection

Your Help Is Needed

A Title 1 questionnaire will be sent home with each student whose family was not able to attend the orientation at the beginning of the month. These questionnaires help to give our Title 1 staff a better picture of the likes and dislikes of your child. Please return them to Candis Boucher as soon as possible. If you are in need of another copy or would like one sent to you via email please contact Candis at boucherc@bsd-ri.net.

Upcoming Events

On Thursday, December 21st children will enjoy our annual Title 1 Holiday Celebration. Families are welcome to attend.
A.T. Levy: 9:15 - 9:45 / W.L. Callahan: 10:15 - 10:45

